Course Description:

Educators & caregivers are often "left in the dark" when it comes to fine motor & language interventions they can implement on their own. During this "hands on" workshop, participants will learn practical strategies & solutions on how to use little to no cost materials (i.e. dollar store, household, & office items) to build language, play, & motor skills. There will be a strong emphasis on differentiating instruction to meet children at their developmental level with hands on experiences.

Learning Objectives:

*Gain knowledge surrounding the importance of play, language development & fine/spatial/visual motor development in early childhood

*Utilize simple/inexpensive/ recyclable materials to connect play, language, motor, visual and cognition skills.

*Administer and upgrade or downgrade activities based on student needs (differential instruction) to meet varying levels of students' needs.

*Learn practical RTI solutions for fine motor & language.
